Abstract

At this point you write the abstract of your work, in the main language in which it is written (in this template - English). Graduate school regulations require the abstract to constitute an independent whole and be understood to a reader with general knowledge of the field. Use complete sentences and make few or no citations. Do not refer to the main body of the work and do not use uncommon shorthand, symbols and terms unless you have room for explaining them. The English abstract should be between 200 and 500 words long.

So this should contain be a few more paragraphs...
